Spain's Infanta Eulalia, Uncle Sam's Guest, Visits the White House,

But the President Finds a Precedent, and Fails to Return the Courtesy-Mrs. Cleveland and Other Ladics at the Arlington.

WASHINGTON, May 20,-The Spanish Infanta, Princess Eulalia, made her official call on the President this morning. The arrangements made last night by Secretary Gresham fixed the hour for this call at 11 o'clock, and, five minutes before that time, two handsome carriages drove up to the summer annex of the Arlington. The public, knowing that this visit was to be made, had gathered around the building in goodly numbers, but a squad of police kept them from encroaching on the front of the entrance. Promptly at 11 p'clock the door opened and the royal party proceeded to the carriages. The Princess was simply but richly attired. She wore a princess dress of gray bengabordered around the train with gray ostrich feathers. A pink stain girdle completed the tollet. Her bonnet was a small affair of light flowers, with pink satin ribbons tied under the chin, with a short white net veil over her face. In her hand she carried a beautiful parasol of chiffon and lace. As soon as the carriage started towards the White liouse the crowd broke and ran through the park in that direction, to witness the arrival of the distinguished party. A running crowd of well-dressed women and small boys heralded the approach of the Infanta and her party to the White House. As her carriage came to a standstill under the broad high portice the three score or more of people gathered there pressed closer together to catch a night of the Princess. The party at once entered the White House.

IN THE BLUE ROOM. The scene in the Blue Room, where all official receptions are held, was made the more effective by the soft half light which pervaded the apartment, and the general effect was assisted by the appearance of the long, warm-carpeted corridor, at the end of which the open doors of the conservatory allowed a vista of bright-colored roses and soft green plants. The corridor and the Blue Room had been decorated tastefully, though not lavisbly. The center divan of the Blue Room was crowned by several pots of blooming rhododendrons, snowballs and geraniums, and other brilliant-hued flowers. In the other room the President and Mrs. Cleveland receive their ready visitors. Senor Muruga, the royal Spanish minister, presented the Infanta and Prince Antonio, while Commander Davis, the Duke of Tamales, the Marchioness of Aro Hermosa and Senor Don Ytovar withdrew to the adjoining Red Room. The greetings between those in the blue Room were very pleasant and had hardly a tinge of formality about them. They were over in a minute or two, and then the others were summoned and presented in turn by Senor Muruaga. Mrs. Cleveland and the Infanta chatted briskly in English during part of the brief visit, while at times the conversation was

At fifteen minutes past 11 o'clock the Infants made her adieux, followed by the others. As she walked across the lobby, a woman in the crowd waved her handkerchief and called out in Spanish: "Greeting to the Intanta of Spain." The Princess looked pleased; the other members of the party smiled. A murmur of admiration went up from the crowd at the brilliancy of the uniform worn by a colonel of Spanish Hussars, Prince Antonio. and with the orders on his breast, his varnished boots and the short coat of white doeskin trimmed in gold, and ermine on the sleeve hanging loose, the Prince was an imposing figure. The other men of the party were also brilliantly costumed, but the naval uniform of Commanuer Davis, as bright and showy as it may look in a purely Ameriban assemblage, was then thrown completely in the shade by the costumes of the Dake, the Minister and the private secretary. The Duke wore much gold braid and a sash of watered silk, from which depended many insignias of royalty. All the men in the party, with the exception of the Prince Antonio wore a Hussar helmet. There was a general uncovering of heads as the Princess entered her carriage and was whisked away to the Arlington. CLEVELAND DID NOT CALL.

Luncheon was hardly over before the Princess began to receive callers. The first callers of the day, after the Spanish ministers, were Mr. and Mrs. Curry, between whom and the Princess an intimate acquaintance was formed when Mr. was United States minister at Madrid. It was generally beheved that the President would return the call made upon him this morning, and quite a crowd gathered about the building to see the President when he came. In this, however, they were disappointed. Promptly at 3 o'clock, though, two carriages drove up, and Mrs. Cleveland, accompanied Mrs. Bissell, Miss Herbert and Mrs. Hoke Smith, entered the hotel, where they remained a few minutes. Mr. Cleveland did not return the call of the Princess. In this connection the precedent set during his former administration is remembered. When Queen Kapiolani was here and visited the President he did just as he did to-day. After the Queen had returned to her apartments Mrs. Cleveland, accompanied by Colonel Wilson, returned the call and with that the formalities ended. Following Mrs. Cleveland and the wives of the members of the Cabinet came a long list of callers, including most of the formembers of the various legations.

At 4:80 the Princess entered a carriage in waiting and was driven to Arlington. The men on the pavement lifted their hats and the ladies clapped their hands as the carriage rolled off, and in response to this demonstration the Infanta bowed and smiled sweetly. The royal guests enjoyed the ride, for the alternoon was perfeet. They returned in time for dinner. The evening was spent in their own spart-

The programme of the Princess Eulalia's stay in Washington was arranged this afternoon. Monday and Wednesday of next week will be devoted to sightseeing. The Infanta and suite will visit all the government buildings and other places of interest in Washington. Tuesday morning | lem first, Gold Dollar second, Belwood third. the members of the diplomatic corps will accompany the royal party to Mount Vernou on a stoomer chartered for that purpose. On Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, the President and Mrs. Cleveland will give a dinner to her Koyal Highness and the royal party at the executive mansion. Wednesday evening the Princess will attend a ball to be given in honor of the birthday of Queen Victoria by Sir Julian Panncefote, the British embassador, at the British embassy. The Infanta and suite will leave Washington for New York Thursday. The invitation to attend the grand ball, to be given her in New York city, has been accepted by the Princess. After the functions in her honor given in Chicago she will go further West in the character of of a private personage. Her tour is likely to extend to the Yellowstone Park. The duration of the stay of the Infants in the United States has not been definitely determined, but it will be from one to two

This afternoon the Princess expressed herseif as delighted with her enthusiastic reception in Washington, and said she was very grateful for the courtesies extended ber. However much people may believe she desires to be bonored. the Infanta wishes it understood that she has no desire to be treated in any other manner than that arranged by the government, and is perfectly entistied and willing to abide by all arrangements that may be made, whether they conform or not to the panctilio of Spanish court etiquette. Her one wish is to be treated in the American way.

A Kink in Veits.

"I will give you a wrinkle for a driving veil, or one to wear in windy weather," said a fashionable young woman, "one which is the most comfortable thing going, as it is impossible to blow off or get out of position. Buy a large square of any colored grenadine you like, and fasten at each corner a small heavy button. Throw the whole veil over your hat, leaving two corners hanging behind, and two in front. Then take the two front ends and tie them around the neck under the hair at the back, over the two back ends. The buttons being heavy keep the whole thing in place, and tying the two front ends back prevents all the unbecoming folds over the face, which are so ugly when the fullness is all gathered up at the sides. I got this ides from my mother, who tells me that when she was a young girl they all wore their veils over their big hats in this way."

vailing on Saturday last, when the street was almost convulsed by the false reports that Hollins & Co. had suspended. The market opened strong and advanced sharply, but a reaction soon set in and a decline of 12@2 per cent, ensued. The trading element was disposed to take the bear side and hammered the list, but did not succeed in forcing out any considerable amount of long stock. The enormous increase in the bank reserve was looked on as a bull argument, but traders who are short took prompt measures to counteract its effect, and persisted in their sales. The buying was considered better than the selling. The net losses for the day were 4 to 1 per cent., outside of a few of the specialties. Big Four gained 1% and Pittsburg & West-

Trade Last Week Fairly Satisfactory, with l'rices Easier in Many Articles.

The more summer-like weather helped trade the latter part of the week. Grocers report business considerably in excess of the corresponding period last year. Dry goods houses report trade fair and much better than in the first part of May, but prices are weak. Hardware men are having a brisk trade. At the commission houses there is a good deal of activity. Old Irish potatoes advanced to $1.10 per bushel, while new potatoes are weak at $2 per bushel. Onions and cabbages are in good supply and prices are easy. The packers say that eggs and poultry have struck a steady market and the present range of prices are likely to rule for several days.

CEREALS HAMMERED DOWN

July Corn Slumped a Cent and Every Rise in Wheat Was Squelched.

Both Cudaby and Pardridge, for a Wonder, Were on the Same Side of the Market for Purely Mercenary Reasons, However, TRADING AT CHICAGO. Changes in Provisious Were Slight, All Grades Holding About Level.

CHICAGO, May 20.-The weakness of corn was the feature to-day. The July futures closed with a loss for the day of lo. Wheat was hammered by the bears, who worked all the harder to knock it out on account of a little advance at the opening. It closed be lower than on the day before, Pardridge and the Cudahy interest were both against the price; the former on general principles, and the latter, it was thought, with a view to having the wheat put to them on about 2,000,000 bushels of those privileges sold by them yesterday afternoon. Provisions were dull and about steady. Wheat was about 4c higher at the opening than yesterday's closing. then after slight changes became weak and prices declined 1c, ruled quiet, and the closing was about %c lower than yesterday. Rumors of frost in France and rather untavorable crap reports from parts of Russia, together with larger clearances from both coasts than have been noticed for some weeks, created a feeling of strength, but the weather was warm and more favorable for the growing crops in this country, and there seemed to be quite a little disposition to realize at the advanced prices. Receivers of corn, as well as railroad officials, were talking of larger arrivals during the coming two weeks, now that farmers are well along with their planting. The conditions over the corn belt were about perfect, the weather being mild and pleasant. The country was said to have sold freely, and parties baving Southwestern connections also disposed of good sized lots. Some short lines were covered on the decline, the market halting for a while, the decline being checked by buying against privileges, out the offerings increased and still lower prices followed. There was good buying of September against sales of July, the difference being about 4 @lc. The market opened at 18@40 decline and closed at inside figures.

Considering the decline in both wheat and corn, prices for oats held very well. Values only receded 4@%c. Opening prices were the highest and closing prices about the lowest. In provisions price changes were slight, and there was no significant or demonstrative trading. The closing quotations show an advance of 50 in pork, a decline of from er in ribs. Hog receipts for next week are estimated at 100,000 head. Lake rates are steady at 140 for wheat and 14e for corn to Buffalo. Estimated receipts for Monday are: Wheat, 150 cars; corn, 500 cars; oats, 290 cars; hogs, 19,000 head. The leading futures ranged as tol-

SCHELLER BACKED OUT.

$6,75@7.65. Receipts, 1,500; shipments, 2,200,

The wrestling match billed for the Empire last night between Scheller, of this city, and Wood, of Cleveland, was declared off at the last minute on account of the nonappearance of Scheller. There was considerable mystery and a great deal of talking about this. Wood claimed that he had received a communication from Scheller in the nature of an ultimatum, which was to the effect that Woods was to permit Scheller to throw him the first two bouts in fifteen and twenty minutes, respectively Scheller taking 35 per cent, and Wood 65 per cent. of the purse. Woods refused to enter into any agreement with him, and says that he told Scheller the match must be straight and the best man win. After this word was sent to Scheller it is said that he refused to engage in the match. It is certain that he was seen about the theater shortly before the conclusion of the performance, Manager Fennessy announced from the stage that on account of the nonappearance of Scheller, those who wished could have their money refunded by applying at the box-office, but that the purse offered for the Scheller-Wood match would be given to the winner in a match between Wood and Riley, of Chicago. The most of the house stayed. Wood was the heavier man and secured a fall in a few minutes. which was at first allowed, but afterwards declared off on account of a vigorous protest from the audience because it was off 80%c; September, 82@82%c, closing at 82%c; | the mat. Wood agreed to let the fall go and the referee was changed. Wood then got two falls in 10:20 and 5 minutes, respectively.

Scheller claimed that his refusal to meet Wood in a straight wrestle was based on an agreement with the Henck Opera House Company. Manager Fennessy emphatically denied that there was any such agreement. The purse of $250 was turned over to Wood by the stakeholder. Wood said he was acquainted with Riley and that this was not his right name.
